COMPANY PROFILE

Providing a flexible approach to your business HR needs

Human resources also termed HR is the management of employees within an organisation to help them perform a function. In a more human way it's making sure your business is looking after your employees, ensuring that they are happy and maximising their potential and in turn increase your business productivity. If you're new to HR then this can be a very daunting prospect, especially as there are lots of employment laws and regulations, that you, as a business owner must comply to. If you're asking yourself where do I start? Or perhaps finding you don't have the time, then we can help. It might be time to consider outsourcing your HR.

The Benefits of Outsourcing HR

There are many reasons for outsourcing your HR requirement, outlined below. Whilst there may be a specific reason, usually to save money, you will see that outsourcing your HR can be the gift that keeps on giving.

Frees your company to focus on what's important for your core business

HR will not directly sell or produce anything but still demands time and resource, therefore any time spent focusing on HR could be taking you away from your core business. By outsourcing this function, it can help increase the productivity of your business by freeing the time spent on HR matters.

Saves Money

The cost of outsourcing your HR is significantly less than hiring a full-time HR professional, so smaller businesses can benefit greatly from this cost saving yet still benefit from the knowledge of an HR specialist.

Compliance

Being a small business understanding employment law and ensuring that you are following it can be quite overwhelming. If you don't have a HR team you may not be compliant. By outsourcing your HR you can stop worrying about employment law and leave it to the experts.

Jude Read HR Consultancy – Retained Services

When you need HR consultancy & advice services, we will be here for you by offering a tailored solution to suit your requirements. We will either act as your HR expert or be there to complement your own HR department.

“As the owner of Jude Read-HR Consultancy I have encountered many businesses that have failed to secure good HR foundations in their policies, procedures and manager training, this may be because of time, resource, finances or simply not realising their business has grown to a size where it requires a structure to be implemented and supported by robust HR procedures.”

Retained HR

This is a great option for employers that don't want or need a full time HR manager.

What you will get:

HR Project Management

Our HR Consultants have vast experience of HR project management and you will benefit from their expertise and knowledge.

You can use our services for complete hands on HR project management or purely for advice throughout the process. We also provide you with the relevant documents and will deal with relevant parties to the project on your behalf, such as Trade Unions.

We are specialists in business mergers/ acquisitions that result in a transfer of undertakings or service provision change. TUPE is a complex area of law and essential to get it correct.

We quite often manage small and large scale (collective) redundancies, our most recent was a site closure in the UK of a multi-national company. We had the extra consideration of time zones when dealing with the VP of HR in Canada and the president in Europe.

We also provide an itemised statement of activities to account for the time we charge you.
